

“BHMT is a Goldmine!”

A successful career doesn’t happen by accident; that’s why career development is so important.

Partner with BHMT to tailor training programs that make your team more effective and helps them achieve the career development goals and objectives you established as a part of their professional growth plan.

As a former BHMT-eligible employee, GA manager Joy Nails discovered that “what was important for me and my team was professional development. No one on my team right now is interested in going back to school, but they were interested in professionally developing themselves.”

BHMT’s Outreach Specialists are here to support you with actionable career development strategies to expand your team’s skills and build morale.
